NURSES RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

Georgetown University Hospital
Presents Medals to Class.

Three Young Women Finish Three-year Course and Are Commended by Father Himmel.

Gaston Hall at Georgetown University was tastefully decorated yesterday afternoon when the graduates of the nurses' training school of the university hospital received their diplomas.

On the stage, beneath pastel paintings and surrounded by palms and cut flowers, three young women, composing the class of '09, received their diplomas from Rev. Joseph Himmel, S. J., president of the university, who said this year's class was one of the brightest that has graduated from the institution.

Father Himmel paid a tribute to the Sisters of St. Francis, under whose tuition the members of the graduating class have received instruction during their three years' course. He complimented the young women, and said he was sure they would be successful in life. At the conclusion of his greetings, Prof. Wilfred M. Barton, M. D., addressed the graduates, in part, as follows:

"Nothing I might say this afternoon could tend to make you young women any more keenly sensible to the high and noble character of the nursing profession. By self-sacrifice and study you have reached the conclusion of your course of training, and to-day will stand out as one of the brightest in your careers."

Dr. Barton then spoke on the nurses' education, from the practical, scientific, and theoretical sides. He said it was a mistake to think a nurse could be over-educated, and contended that the more knowledge possessed, the better chance the physician would have in saving lives of patients.

The presentation of medals was made by Prof. Joseph Tabor Johnson, M. D., who stated they were in recognition of excellence in study, and as a remembrance from the sisters.

The graduating class members were Miss Anna Howell Stewart of this city; Miss Katherine Browne, of Baltimore, and Miss May C. Lewis, of Baltimore. They were presented with bouquets of American Beauty roses from friends, and were the guests at a ball given in their honor last night at the university, by the undergraduates of the hospital training school.

BAN ON FLOWER PICKERS.

New Regulation Prohibits Visitors Carrying Plants in Park.

An amendment to the regulations governing Rock Creek Park was made by the Commissioners yesterday, which prohibits any person from having in his possession while in the park, any tree, shrub, flower, plant, or any part thereof.

The attention of the Commissioners had been called to the action of visitors to the park who have not been seen picking flowers and breaking branches from the trees, but who leave that recreation placed with armfuls of flowers supposed to have been plucked within its limits.
